“ Aaron you were a amazing friend and even though I haven't seen you in years you always kept in contact with me giving words of encouragement and reconnecting with our love for music. I will never forget our times together when we lived in vegas and I'll never forget you. You will already be a found memory in my mind and my heart. I love you my dear friend and when ever I hear certain bands I will always think of you . Until we meet again thank you for being you and I am honored to have been able to call you my friend .

This young man grew up with our son, Jeff Wade. As Jeff's parents, we blessed to know him as a wonderful kid growing into a fantastic young man. Say his name and always share the memories you have of him. May the Lord hold his family and friends in His arms during this time.

“ Throughout the past 30 plus years (yes it has been that long) I’ve thought about our old times regularly. Those nights we would lay in the dark not able to fall asleep because we were so excited about the sports card show the next day. We would talk for hours about what cards or sets we hoped to find. I remember the one set of cards he wanted (and got) back in the day more than any. One night before a card show he said he was saving up and hoped to find the 1987 Fleer baseball set. He found it and got it along with the 88 fleer set the same day. He was like a kid in a candy store. Lol. We both were. He wanted that set mostly because it had Bobby Bonillas rookie in it. But also liked it because of Barry Bonds, Mark McGwire, Bo Jackson, etc. I remember vividly him naming the rookies in that set and saying that’s the reason he wanted it. My parents love telling the story about when we would sleep out in the garage, I’d always put Aaron closest to the door because I was chicken. Lol! I also remember my brother and I got into a fight in the living room floor and I yelled “Aaron get him”. He just set there and laughed his butt off. Then the time we were walking out of the lunch room at Crockett and he patted me on the back, I lost my footing and went forward and cracked my tooth on the door (the crack is still there) Man that was great times before life got stressful and before we really cared what others thought about us. I know life took us both on completely different journeys and we fell out of touch with each other. All those years when I heard something good about him from others, It always brought a smile to my face. Every time we would run into each other, he made me feel like he was legitimately glad to see me. He always had such a huge heart and beautiful soul, and from keeping up with him on social media and our recent chats on messenger I can tell his family has multiplied it. It is so easy to tell how much his wife and sons are his world. He has always, and will always hold a special place in my heart. Because of Aaron I now will text, call, or message people when they cross my mind instead of waiting until it’s too late. Rest easy old friend!
