“ Rest easy bro. I wish we could've had that one more beer we always talked about, but the Lord had other plans for you. I'm comforted by the fact your mom, Uncle Ben, and primo Alex welcomed you home, but I'm sad that you left so soon. There was once a time when we couldn't be spotted around Roswell without one and other, and those time will always be near and dear to me. You were down for whatever, whenever, with whoever. You never judged and would give anyone the shirt off of your back, even when times were tough for you. I love and miss you bro. Tell Big Ren and J I said what up, and I'll catch you on the other side.

“ I can't believe you're gone bro. I'm sad that we didn't get to have one more beer together but there was a time where I couldn't be seen without you, and vice versa. We were some fools bro and I took it for granted we would grow old together. I love and miss you bro, and I'll always hold those times we spent together close to my heart. All those times rolling in the cutty, your ranger, your neon, I could go on and on. You were always the type of dude to give anyone the shirt off your back, even through rough times. You never judged anyone and we're always there for everyone. I love and miss you bro, rest easy. Tell Big Ren and J what up and I'll catch you on the other side bro.

“ You are truly going to be missed bro. One of the last times I seen you was at Farmers North and I was messing with you acting like I was trying to take your food. From high school to working with you at farmers got to many memories to list. You were a great dude and will always be remembered and missed. My condolences to the family. Long Live Guaps ❤️

“ Guapo,

You will be missed so much. :(

Anytime Anthony and I called you, you were always there and ready to hang out. I will forever cherish the memories we made together on Forest Street and Heights Drive, going to The Game and Snoop Dogg concert, and celebrating mine and Anthony's wedding. I will never forget your sweet mom babysitting my Isaac when he was a baby, or all the times we'd see each other at Farmer's Market.

You were always kind to me and were there for so many of the good times in mine and Anthony's life. Going to Roswell will never feel the same without you.

I will especially cherish the last time we all hung out—driving to Artesia and then coming back to Roswell to find the city flooded. Being stuck at Walgreens with you and Anthony, laughing for hours while we waited things out, and the two of you cracking up at the random things I would say. At the time, it felt like just another day together, but now it's a memory I will treasure forever.

Thank you for your friendship and your laughter with us. Thank you for being a great friend to me, but an even better best friend to Anthony. You and him were always together in Roswell, making memories, sharing laughs, and being there for each other through every stage of life. Your friendship meant the world to him, and I will always be grateful for the bond you shared.

The world feels a little less bright without you in it, but I am grateful for every memory we shared. God Bless and I will be praying for you. Until we meet again! PS. Tell 2Pac I said Hi! haha “ Toot, aka lil Chris, aka guapes, aka primo, I can't believe your gone, when I heard the news I didn't believe it, I thought no way not you prim, it can't be! I sat and just thought about all the good times that we all shared, the cousins who used to walk from grandma Stella's down to Kathy's arcade, Ricky, Josh, Lorenzo and I, to go get down on some street fighter, to all the birthdays, holidays, graduations and weddings. All the late nights hanging out, the trips, The bon fires, cook outs and get togethers, I can go on for days, but the thing I miss the most is your laugh and all the laughs with you! You were a god send when times were rough, I knew I could always call you and you would brighten those hard days up. I wish you were still here cuz, but know that god has taken you home, and to be back in your mom's arms as well. I know she missed you, she loved you and Issac so much. Well Cuz until I see you again, just know I love you and miss you, and know that I will always and forever be reminiscient on all the good times! You will never be forgotten!

Always your cousin,
Ant.

PS. Your spurs made the finals, and might take it this year. 🙏
