On October 5th, 1953, Charles William Green was born to Acea A. Green and Lois A. DeBorde in Roswell, New Mexico. He attended Roswell High School. Charles enlisted in the United States Army in 1974 with the 27th Maintenance Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division. He married Shonda L. Coggin on February 15th, 1985 in Roswell, New Mexico. He had a strong faith in God, and knew Jesus as his Lord and Savior. Charles had an unwavering love for his family, and his children held a special place in his heart. He was a devoted husband and father who took great joy in nurturing, guiding, and sharing life's adventures with family. He also treasured quality time with his cousins and getting into plenty of trouble with his friends.

In addition, one of his greatest joys was spending time in the great outdoors, whether it was casting a line into a tranquil lake for bass fishing, competing in fishing tournaments, or heading into the woods to hunt for deer. But he was not just an enthusiast for the thrill of the hunt or the catch; he was equally passionate about the camaraderie it brought. His friends were an integral part of his life, and he cherished the simple yet profound moments of bonding over a cup of coffee, sharing stories, and creating lasting memories.

Before retiring, Charles W. Green dedicated his career to the HVAC field, where he owned his own business and applied his expertise to create comfortable environments for countless homes and businesses. He was more than just a skilled professional; he was a remarkable individual in many ways. He possessed an inner strength that was not just physical but also a source of inspiration for those around him. His resilience in the face of life's challenges served as a testament to his unwavering spirit.

Charles W. Green's humor was infectious, and he had a unique ability to light up any room with laughter. His quick wit and humorous anecdotes brought joy to family gatherings, social occasions, and the everyday moments he shared with friends and loved ones. Perhaps one of the most cherished aspects of Charles' character was his reliability. He was the person you could always count on—whether it was lending a helping hand, offering a shoulder to lean on, or providing words of wisdom and comfort. His dependability made him a cherished friend, confidant, and pillar of support to those fortunate enough to be part of his life. Charles will be missed dearly by his family and friends.

“ The first time I met him was the day I was born. And I wish I could have known him more. The second time I met him was in 2015. I knew he was a good person and he welcomed me back in his life and my grandparents home like I never left. I love my uncle and am happy that I got to meet him. Love you uncle Chuck and you will be missed but never forgotten.
