“ Jerry, can't understand why things happen the way they do.
I keep looking for answers all day through.
I've searched and searched as to why God took you,
The one I loved like no other.
You were my life, my heart, and my soul,
And all of this grieving is taking its toll.
The answer's not there as much as I pray,
Maybe it's not for me to know, not today anyway.
Here on earth you were crippled and in pain,
But in Heaven I know God threw away your cane.
Your pain never no more,
You're up dancing and walking just like before.
Death is curtain this is no doubt.
I know you loved your family with all of your heart.
And it's not always we will be apart.
Sometime soon we will all be together to live with Jesus forever and ever.
You meant a lot in my life. Thank you for being genuine through your entire life

“ Oh, my beloved brother. Thank you for always being there for me. I'll miss our Sunday morning breakfasts & our venting sessions. Loved our gardening competitions, even though you always won. I thank God for releasing you from your pain, but I miss you. It's so hard saying goodbye to you. I love you forever. Until we meet again. Fly with the angels.
Your sister,
Teri Romero
