“ To the family of Joann, back in the day when I worked as a stylist I would sometimes do her hair and she was so much fun to visit with. I remember the story of the mocking the birds when she had a good friend over and they had sipped some wine, I guess we all have good times to speak of and more so when we are served some wine. To hear her tell the story was so funny. I'm picturing thses two gals on the back porch swing laughing at the imitations that were right on cue and those that were not. She was nice to know, may she rest in peace along all with those I loved and knew in this lifetime
