“ Ray my family and I send out our condolences to you and your family. The Vacant Chair In reunions there's a picture, a quite unfaded for its age. And I see each part and fixtures as it sits on memory's stage. Then the circle was unbroken; but a place is now left bare: Death has claimed her as its token, and there's now her vacant chair. Even though we seem light-hearted when reunions come again, there's a sister who's departed and it cannot be the same. There is not that same old feeling that we once experienced there. For sadness comes a feeling as we see the vacant chair. There's a cheerful sound of laughter as we greet each smiling face; but you note the difference after, each has settled in their place. Games are played as day advances, but there's something in the air that's revealed by silent glances given to that vacant chair. Then there comes the time for eating as we all are gathering around; and quite noisily we seating as each one there place has found. But when seated at the table with our heads all bowed in prayer, in our hearts we're still unable to forget that vacant chair. And we're thinking, while departing, (though the thought is hard to bear), that too soon eyes will be staring over another vacant chair. But there'll be another meeting, and it is our favorite prayer that in heaven, when we're seating there will be no vacant chair!

“ My deepest sympathies to the Green family. I'm sorry for your loss...I had the pleasure of caring for Laura the times she was hospitalized. Despite her illness, she was always a pleasure to work with. She was a lovely person with a perky attitude which I loved. May you have the strength to get through this difficult time.

“Laura, As the days passed I've always listened my brothers and sister talk about a Lora (G). I've always wondered who you were! When I finally got the day to meet you. We had a great first connection. I grew close to you. Your Advice, Your screaming to me, Everything from you was done with love. My family known you as you were one of our family members. Ashley grew on us as our sister. All this is getting to I will miss you dearly! I will miss going to your house on weekly basis to see that smile. But in all reality we all know you are finally in piece with no pain. Laura I will miss you deeply.

I will always keep you dearly close to my heart along with your advice, you taught me that everything that is put in our plate we can handle, Rather it is something we don not want in our plate but it was put there for a reason. You taught me to be strong and fight. And if you could be that strong person so can I.

Laura I love you with all my heart, And I will always miss you. Now you are our Angel looking down on us. And possibly getting mad at we are doing. But knowing that we wil learn from our mistakes Laura I love you.

R.I.P Laura I know you are in a better place with peace and rest.
