Over his remarkable 91 years, he lived a vibrant and full life, bringing wisdom, warmth, and a youthful spirit to everyone who knew him. He witnessed merely a century of history in his hometown; anchoring his family and community with his strength and deep roots.

Linton was very proud that he could say we went to the New Mexico Military Institute for High School and Junior College. He also completed a semester of college in Mexico and a couple of years at the University of Texas.

Linton owned Roswell Home Furnishing for more than 60 years. Most of the family worked from him and learned how to sell furniture. His love for talking to customers, doing TV commercials and selling was his passion. People would ask him, what are you going to do when you retire and he would say "I'm not. “ Uncle Leevo was a constant part of our life who Jim and I will miss dearly as I know you will too. I remember how Nancy would make him share the wonderful pop corn balls that they made every Christmas. He only wanted to give you two. We would laugh every time that Nancy would tell him “Now Leevo you know you have to give them more”.

I know that Linton was very proud of his older sister, Charline Holder and they even bought a pig farm together in which later Darwin and Verlon became part of. He always loved his two younger brothers, Darwin and Verlon, and his older sister, Charline.

“ I will always carry deep gratitude and love for Mr. Miller and his beautiful wife, who changed the course of my life through simple kindness and generosity. During my high school years, when my parents moved away, he opened his home to me without hesitation so I could remain behind and finish school. At a time when life felt uncertain, he gave me stability, encouragement, and a place where I felt safe and cared for. He was more than a successful business man he was a loving father, husband and a pillar of kindness in Roswell community. My condolences go out to his son Leevo and his daughter Lavonne, who both are always dear to my heart. May the Lords face shine upon Mr. miller and give him eternal peace and love .
