“ I was so saddened to hear of Lori's passing. She was a joy to know. In 1992 she married my father, Leonard Dombrowski and became friends with all of his grown children (I'm one of them). We were so happy he had someone to share his life with after the loss of our mother. They seemed very happy for many years until he passed. Lori and I touched bases a few times a year even after my father was gone. I will miss her so. I wish there were more people on earth as sweet as her.
