Dear Pop

Once you had told me when you were gone, I'd pick up the pieces, I would go on

But you forgot to mention one tiny detail, somethings aren't easy and sometimes I might fail

There's times when the world seems to rest on my shoulders, not another year wiser, just another year older

I try to recall all you had to teach,
I probably seemed to be way out of reach

Hold your head high and always be strong, never let it show when things are going wrong

Have a firm hand but a gentle touch, use force as a tool, never a crutch

Bite your lip before you cry, always tell the truth and never tell a lie

Be a good man take care of your nest, always be sure, to do your best

Be hard to shove, stick out your chest, you can always love, but never go through the test

Of your family, and yourself, always be proud, be a leader never follow the crowd

Teach you girls goodness and your boys to be strong, let them know, any road worth taking may be long

Thank God everyday for all that he gives you, follow him always in everything you do

Take some advice only when needed, but use your own mind, that's how things get succeeded

I realize now how right you were, everyday seems to get harder, every year is a blur

An old man giving lectures Is all I had thought, there were lessons to learn, and lessons to be taught

I grasped one here, I grasped one there

As you lectured and preached while you sat in your chair

I never realized you were on my side, even when you tanned my hide

I wish I would've listened more when you were alive, but with all you've left me, I have learned to survive

I'm thanking you now, even though it's too late,
And hopefully I'll see you at Heaven's great gate
