“ It seems just yesterday you were picking me up from school asking what I learned that day or what I did, and as usual I would say, "nuttin and I played outside at recess." You would laugh and I would quickly ask if you made your famous bread I loved so much. I miss the days when I would come to your house and ask if you would take pictures of me and my hair as if you had nothing better else to do. To be honest, I didn't care what we did. I was just happy to be with you. I remember the day you handcuffed me and then after about 2 minutes telling me you lost the key to get me out, I thought I was going to be like that forever, but deep down I knew you wouldn't keep me like that. I remember when I had a loose baby tooth, I would only let you pull them out because you were so gentle and never hurt me. You were a gentle giant. Do you remember papa when we would give grandma a hard time about butt smells and lemon jelly? We would laugh so hard. Those are the days I'm going to miss and even though they were 20 years ago, I will cherish them forever and that's what's going to keep you alive in my heart. God gained an amazing angel the day He called you Home. Although its hard now I know you're watching over me, and that's the best feeling ever. I love you and miss you dearly Papa you're little marieoooochie.
