Socorro's family was her biggest asset, and she dedicated a lot of her time creating her home. She had so many friends that we couldn't count. She loved her garden, especially roses. Every now and then, she would pick a good telenovela to watch. She was always active and helped so many people that needed food, clothes, and other things. She was a practicing Catholic and was very dedicated to her faith. Socorro will be missed by her family and friends.

She is survived by Omar Chavez and fiancé Marie Fletcher.

She is survived by her husband, Jose Chavez of nearly 50 years of marriage; sons: Jose Alfonso and his wife Graciela Chavez of Amarillo, TX, Omar Chavez, and Jorge Luis Chavez both of Roswell; 2 granddaughters, Maleny and Joselyn Chavez both of Amarillo, TX; siblings, Cipriano Arras from Roswell, and Agustin, Juan, and Roberto Arras who live in Mexico; sister, Dolores Torres from California; sister-in-law, Margarita Chavez; and her best friend Velma Acosta who was always there for her.
